Remembers taking the ferry to work.

TS: And how did you get to work?

MF: When I first-- I walked to work and got the ferry --down at the ferry building down where at the maritime museum - that used to be the ferry building. Before that it was just a little boat. They didn't have the big ferry. When I first started at Star-Kist it was just a little boat we used to take.

It was a like a like a big purse seiner, really. It was probably owned by the harbor. Everybody took it, then they built the beautiful building on both sides. There was a little restaurant inside and it took automobiles -- so people wouldn't have to drive all the way around. That was years after the war. I don't remember taking it until after we moved to the new location.
